At city meeting Outgoing councilmen honored, new Bay officials recognized

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Outgoing Bay St. Louis councilmen were honored and newly elected officials were recognized at a City Council meeting Tuesday night. The meeting was the last officially for two council members. Re-elected Mayor Larry Bennett presented outgoing Council President and Ward One Representative Peter Benvenuti and Ward Four Councilman Fred Wagner framed city 'Certificates of Appreciation.' Benvenuti and Wagner did not run for office in recent city elections. After the presentations Benvenuti said he was 'almost speechless' and Wagner stated he was 'very touched.' The two councilmen's successors Gene Taylor of Ward One and Shelton Seuzeneau of Ward Three were introduced. Re-elected Ward Two Councilman James Thrifley III presented Benvenuti with a plaque commending his efforts as council president. Joseph Gex, city attorney, said all elected city officials will be sworn in during ceremonies on the steps of City Hall beginning at 10:30 a.m. July 3. Pat Murphy Jr., organizer of the Second Annual Beachfront Festival which was recently staged in the Downtown area, received a city proclamation commending his efforts. In other business at the 7 p.m. meeting in the City Hall council room, the council: Accepted a letter from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development's Jackson Area Office, as recommended by Ronnie Murray of Ron Murray Consultants, Inc. of Bay St. Louis, notifying the city a $227,000 Small Cities Program 1978 sewerage and water line project was completed COUNCIL—Page 3A

Justice Department pressure felt at Hancock County Jail

By BRENT MACEY
With knowledge the federal justice department is watching progress of all Mississippi jails to insure inmate constitutional rights are not being violated, work at the Hancock County Jail is taking on a dimension of new importance. Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson said recently, "The federal government does not care if we have a jail or not. All they are saying is if you are going to have a jail then you are going to have to run it constitutionally." The sheriff is currently awaiting a form from the state attorney general which he believes will have a list of questions concerning conditions at the jail. That form will be returned to the State Attorney Bill Allain who will in turn deliver the completed form to the justice department. Allain negotiated having the form sent to the counties after learning the justice department intended to send Federal Bureau of Investigation agents to each county to gather their own information. A 100 day deadline for completion of the form has given each department and Peterson said he will be working toward the September deadline. "We don't feel we have a choice in the matter. We will be furnishing the information," he said. The sheriff said the justice department might send Federal Bureau of Investigation agents to the county if the form were not completed. He added the justice department might also file suit against the county and the sheriff if the form were not completed. "We feel we should cooperate the best we can," he stated. Even if the information is completed and returned to the department, a possibility exists that Hancock County Jail, like any other county jail in Mississippi, will be closed down by the justice department if the information does not satisfy federal regulations regarding inmate constitutional rights. Possible law suits might also accompany the closing. Peterson said Friday, the form has not been sent to his office and would not speculate on what questions he will be expected to answer. The sheriff said he anticipates the justice department will ask if each prisoner has 50 square feet of living space, a federal regulation for jail conditions included in the United States Constitution. Peterson admitted last week that question could present a problem. JAIL—Page 2A

Many deep hole drownings occur on weekend afternoons in June

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
The last nine drownings in the deep hole have occurred on weekend afternoons with all except one occurring in June. The hole, located about 1,500 feet offshore from Gulfside Assembly Center and Buccaneer State Park in Waveland, is a crater-like cavity 500 feet by 800 feet in size which was apparently created in a 1966 U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' dredging project forming a sand beach from Ballentine Street in Bay St. Louis to Bayou Cadet. Officials report some 25 people have drowned in the hole during the last few years with the underwater crater claiming its latest victim, a Slidell man, May 31. The sand berm was designed by the Corps to prevent Beach Boulevard from eroding due to storm wave action. A quicksand mud bottom, ranging from one to 20 feet in depth, was added to the hole in 1978 when spoils from a nearby Bayou Cadet Corps dredging operation were dumped in an attempt to fill the cavity, apparently making the hole more dangerous than it was previously. Warning signs have also been placed on the beach by the City of Waveland, and the Hancock County Civil Defense installed markers offshore around the deadly hole itself. Mayor John Longo of Waveland is now seeking assistance from state officials to secure a Corps permit to fill DROWNINGS—Page 8A

Pioneer Pass fisherman named '81 King Neptune

By EDGAR PEREZ
A retired New Orleans cotton merchant and lifelong Pass Christian fisherman has been chosen King Neptune of the 1981 Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo. John M. Parker Jr., expert cast net maker and net fisherman, will reign over the 33rd annual event slated for July 2-5 with headquarters in the Rice Pavilion near the Gulfport Small Craft Harbor. A pioneer Pass Christian tarpon fishing champion, the 88-year-old Parker first came to Pass Christian in 1893 before he was one-year-old. He was winner of the 1926 Pass Christian Tarpon Tournament and won a trophy for catching the first tarpon in the 1928 Pass event. Parker, a resident of St. Louis Street in Pass Christian, said he was highly successful in catching tarpon in the 1920's from an area then known as 'The Tarpon Hole' about one mile southeast of the Pass Marianne Light. "There was some 50 feet of water over shell reefs in that area then, but it has since been destroyed by dredging operations," the new King Neptune reported. "I've had to give up deep sea fishing," Parker admits regretfully, adding, "I get seasick now."

Christian Chamber of Commerce, said, "My selection as King Neptune is an honor for Pass Christian—I'm too old for personal honors." J. D. (Big John) Rutherford Jr. of Bay St. Louis, former Hancock County Chancery clerk, was King Neptune last year. Gulfport Mayor Jack Barnett has proclaimed July 2-5 as Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo Days in Gulfport. In a welcoming statement prepared for the rodeo program brochure, Barnett has extended his wishes for "a most enjoyable Fourth of July weekend to all visiting Gulfport and the Mississippi Gulf Coast during the Rodeo." Fishing in the Rodeo will begin at 12:01 a.m. on July 2 and will continue through 4 p.m. on July 5, when the weigh scales close for the final time. Weigh scales will be open until 8 p.m. each day except for the final day. The Rice Pavilion will open early each morning and will remain open throughout each day until midnight. Rides, displays, entertainment, food, beverages, games and many other activities will be available to rodeo visitors. Thousands of visitors are expected to attend the rodeo during the four day period with an exceptionally large KING—Page 2A

But Parker continues with his love for cast net fishing, and can be found early in the morning headed for the Pass Christian Yacht Club pier to try his luck on some 'Biloxi Bacon' or popeye mullet. Parker is reputed to be one of the best teachers of the art of throwing a cast net, and will readily demonstrate his skills if asked. Many Pass Christian youth have learned their cast net expertise from Parker, and some have obtained a net 'better than money can buy' handmade by the teacher. King Neptune traditionally is a Gulf Coast senior citizen who personifies fishing and the fishing industry along the Coast, and one who is considered an outstanding citizen of the area. Parker has been active in many civic projects, including the Pass Christian Fishing Rodeo. He is a former vice commodore of the Pass Christian Yacht Club and at one time served as a director of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange. Nominations for the King Neptune honor are made each year by the Coast Chamber of Commerce. The winner is selected by the rodeo board of directors. Parker, nominated by the Pass

Change of command ceremonies for the Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant at the National Space Technology Laboratories will be at 9 a.m. Thursday in the Mississippi Mall in Fcayune. Lt. Col. Walter Busbee will assume command of the facility, now under construction, from Lt. Col. Robert F. Bowers during the event.

Man charged with burglary

A Bay St. Louis man was arrested Thursday in Marrero, La., by the Jefferson County Sheriff's Department in connection with the theft of some $5,000 of cash and checks from Bay St. Louis Attorney William Stuart's office last Sunday. Matt Karl, investigator for the Bay St. Louis Police Department, said, Honor Alexander, 22, of Spring Lake was arrested after an all points bulletin was issued by the department following the Sunday theft. Karl said another man also is still being sought in connection with the burglary. Alexander was extradited from Louisiana and is currently in the Hancock County Jail under $15,000 bond.

Elderly housing plans snubbed by Waveland

By BRENT MACEY

The Waveland Board of Aldermen Wednesday approved sending a letter to Housing and Urban Development which may stymie chances of a church group building a low income housing complex for the elderly in the city.

The South Central Conference of Seventh Day Adventists had applied to HUD to receive a $3.5 million grant for construction of a 64-unit housing complex in an area off Old Spanish trail near Nicholson Avenue and US-90.

The church group applied for the grant under a program for charitable and non-profit management organizations.

HUD returned the application to John A. Preston Associates Architects and Planners of Nashville, Tenn., the architects for the conference, and included a list of deficiencies in the application.

The return letter stated the architects did not show any evidence of community support for such a project or include zoning information.

That information was forwarded to the aldermen board with a requested to provide the necessary information.

The board showed no interest in mailing the information to the church group. Instead they approved having Waveland Mayor John Longo write a letter to HUD informing HUD the project does not conform to the city's Housing Authority Proposal.

In other business, the board:

—Decided to readvertise bids for rehabilitation of three homes in the Middletown area. Three bids opened during Wednesday's meeting proved to be too high to be accepted by HUD.

Lad's Construction Company of Waveland bid $9,156 on rehabilitation of Ed White's home, $8,071 on Thadeus Jackson's home and $5,430 on Rose Thompson's home.

McIntyre Construction Company of Bay St. Louis bid $7,202 on rehabilitation of White's home, $7,336 on Jackson's home and $7,920 on Thompson's home.

—Accepted the uniform assessment schedules for 1981-82 ad valorem taxes as approved by the Mississippi State Tax Commission.

crowd expected on the fourth of July to view a gigantic fireworks display at 9 p.m.

A skydiving exhibit will be among the highlights of the rodeo at 5 p.m. on July 4.

The half hour aerial fireworks display will begin at 9 p.m. on July 4 and might be seen all along the Coast area beach front from Biloxi to Long Beach.

The Gulfport Fire Department will be in charge of the fireworks program.

Numerous stage attractions also will be presented during the four-day rodeo, including dance school exhibits, various local bands and the awarding of daily prizes.

CAST NET EXPERT—John M. Parker Jr., left, of Pass Christian took this large drum fish with a cast net in 1976. Parker, a recognized cast net maker and thrower, has been selected King Neptune to reign over the 1981 Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo July 2-5. Assisting Parker with his catch from the Pass Christian Yacht Club Pier is Walter M. Morse, also of Pass Christian.

hopes to change that room into another cell to house two additional prisoners.

All state inmates must be segregated from county inmates. Men and women prisoners must also be kept in separate cells and juvenile male and female inmates must be segregated from each other and adult prisoners.

"It's tough," the sheriff admitted. He stated the inmates will often have to be moved from one cell to another to accommodate new inmates.

"It's a lot of work. All personal belongings have to be taken out and moved to another cell to accommodate a prisoner which has to be segregated," he said.

"There is a lot of juggling involved," he added.

"We are doing the best with what we have got," Peterson said.

"We hope the courts will realize this and see we are working in good faith."

Jail

He stated one solution would involve removing state inmates in the county to the state penitentiary. A second solution will involve building a new facility, he said.

"That would be a long term solution and would cost some $3 or $4 million," he said.

Financing a new $3 or $4 million facility also presents a problem.

Jeffrey Taylor, of Gulf Regional Planning, said Hancock County cannot afford that cost.

Taylor is currently working with both Harrison and Hancock Counties on implementation of new jail policy.

Monday Taylor met with Peterson to work on establishing a policy and procedure manual for Hancock County Jail.

A Salt Lake City manual is being used as a model for establishing a county jail manual.

Peterson said the manual is not required by the federal government or the state.

He said establishing a manual which describes the duties and responsibilities of officers and inmates will increase the level of competency and professionalism in the department.

He stated the manual might also aid department if faced with a future lawsuit.

"It would show we have certain standards of procedure and inmates will be treated the same no matter who they are," Peterson said.

Peterson said procedures exist now at the department but nothing has been written down on paper.

Both Taylor and Peterson agreed most large municipal jails have procedure manuals and that policy is working its way down to the smaller jails.

Taylor said he has recently finished measuring the county jail to see if the jail house can be divided differently to give each inmate more living space.

"We are juggling options to try to stay out of trouble," Taylor said.

Peterson stated, "We want to show the court that we are doing everything in our power to improve the jail conditions and show we are acting in good faith."

Taylor said he felt the justice department would look at the possibility that Hancock County will be building a new jail and say "well that's great."

He added, "But I am sure they would like to know what we are doing with the old jail, and want to see how well that facility has been managed."

Taylor said all funds from the federal government for construction of jail facilities have been cut out of the budget.

"There are no more brick and mortar funds available," he said.

The sheriff's department did receive some grant money from the federal government in the recent past for jail improvements.

That money was used to build additional office space, and a new cafeteria.

In addition, a 'booking room' was remodeled to include a holding cell. A door also was punched in that room to make jail cells directly accessible from the booking room. Previously inmates had to be taken outside the building and escorted to the jail area.

Peterson said Friday work continues in the jail area. He noted some $15,000 in grant money has all been spent for the major improvements.

"We are finishing up with county money," the sheriff said.

The inmates in the county jail are currently working scraping and repainting the inside the jail cell areas.

The sheriff said almost all labor has been performed by inmates, a savings to the county which also enabled the department to spend more grant money on construction materials.

Inmates also are laying tiles on floors in all the cells. An effort to keep the jails clean also has been increased.

Peterson said the inmates confined in the upstairs area are given a bucket and mop every morning to clean their cells.

"They are very willing to do it. They want to keep the area clean," he said.

Cleanliness presents more of a problem when there are large numbers of inmates included in the small quarters, the sheriff noted.

Upstairs in the main security section of the jail two sections, approximately 25 by 10 feet, house two types of inmates.

One section contains state inmates. Separate cells are included in each section. Peterson said those individual cells are rarely locked because of possible fires.

"It takes too much time to get everybody out of those cells if there is a fire," he said.

The other cell houses county prisoners, and prisoners who are awaiting pre-trial hearings. That area is approximately the same size as the state prisoner section and contained some six inmates Friday.

A final cell, approximately six by seven feet, completes the upstairs jail area. That room was vacant Friday while tile was being laid by an inmate.

Two small cells down stairs located near the department's office area are available for women prisoners and juveniles.

A behavior modification module, a cell with nothing in it, approximately five by seven feet, is also located down stairs below the maximum security cells.

Peterson said that cell is rarely used and is only used if there is danger an inmate might harm himself or another prisoner. The sheriff said that cell will eventually be padded.

A room next to that cell is currently being used as storage. Peterson said he

Medicaid eligibility to be handled by commission

The Mississippi Legislature in 1980 adopted Supplementary Security Income (SSI) criteria for determining Medicaid eligibility for the aged, blind or disabled effective July 1, 1981.

Medicaid eligibility for the aged, blind or disabled will be handled by the Mississippi Medicaid Commission beginning July 1 in accordance with the new state law.

After July 1 the Department of Public Welfare will not handle Medicaid for the aged, blind or disabled.

The county welfare departments will only process Medicaid eligibility for Aid to Dependent Children recipients and foster care.

Aged, blind or disabled persons receiving Medicaid cards from the Department of Public Welfare will receive notices after June 15 advising them if they will continue to be eligible.

Those Medicaid recipients will also be notified of the appropriate Medicaid regional office they should contact if they have any questions concerning their eligibility.

The Medicaid Commission will open Medicaid regional offices on July 1 to handle Medicaid eligibility for the aged, blind or disabled persons who do not receive SSI.

These offices will be located in Tupelo, Columbus,

Meridian, Greenwood, Greenville, Jackson, Hattiesburg, Vicksburg and Gulfport.

The regional offices will work with persons in those areas.

Under the new law:

(1) All persons who receive SSI will automatically be eligible for Medicaid.

(2) Aged, blind or disabled persons in institutional care facilities (nursing homes or long term hospitalization) may be eligible if determined financially needy.

(3) Persons who would be eligible for SSI if Social Security cost of living increases which caused them to exceed the financial need standard were disregarded.

Non-SSI aged, blind or disabled persons who wish to apply for Medicaid must contact the Medicaid Regional Office serving the area in which they reside.

Legal secretaries explore word use

A program explaining "Word Processing," the machines and their use, highlighted the regular meeting of Harrison-Hancock Legal Secretaries Association recently.

"Members Denise Faucett, Karen Hair, Marilyn Knight, professional legal secretary, and Rita Smith spoke to the group about the various machines, their benefits and disadvantages, and how these processors are used in their respective firms," said group spokeswoman Frances Favre of Gulfport recently.

Maxine LeBouef, president, welcomed new members Delores Kru, Christy Freeman, Kathleen Ladner and Althea King.

Dorothy Moran, a charter member, was reinstated.

Three guests were also introduced including Kathy Ladner, Isabelle Charnoff and Ronnie Brendal.

CAUTION URGED—Bay St. Louis Police Chief Douglas Williams is urging motorists to exercise caution at the corner of Toule and Main Streets where a former four-way stop has been changed to a two-way stop on Toule only. Williams said motorists, after stopping on Toule, out of habit might tend to pull out expecting a vehicle approaching on Main to stop. The chief also cautioned against the possibility of rear-end collisions on Main where motorists, also out of habit, will tend to stop where there is no longer a need to do so. He said city crews this week will erase the word "Stop" painted in the Main Street roadway. The change has been effected to improve traffic flow on the more heavily travelled Main Street. Williams noted. (Echo staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

—Accepted a letter from Engineer James Chiniche of Bay St. Louis reporting a US-90 water line project, running from Main Street to Washington Street has been "substantially completed" except for seven work items;

—Accepted certified election results presented by City Clerk Edward Favre; —Approved a $430 payment to Coastal Insurance Agency of Bay St. Louis for a one-year accident policy for the City Volunteer Fire Department personnel;

—Approved a $4,034 payment to Breland and Barnett of Gulfport, as recommended by Gex, for legal services apparently to date in a pending lawsuit against the city filed by Kelvin Schulz, owner of the Bay Theater. Schulz claims the city violated his constitutional rights when city police closed his theater in 1979 when a PG-rated movie was being shown. The council would not release details of the attorney fees due to pending litigation;

—Approved reducing City Municipal Separate School District property assessments for Peter Fountain Jr., William Stechmann, Edward Barthel and Kenneth Rice of Bay St. Louis; Lindsey Malaisson and JoAnne McGovern of Waveland; eliminated 30 erroneous assessments in the Shoreline Park area; and reduced one Shoreline assessment partially in the district;

—Approved reducing district personnel property assessments for WXGR Radio Station and Stuckey's Candy Shop in Waveland due to errors;

—Authorized advertising for bids to replace flooring and ceilings in the Hancock County Senior Citizens' rooms at the Valena C. Jones Center. City Utilities' Superintendent Bill Johnson said the project will be federally funded;

—Authorized paying $200 to Don

Wheeler of Ocean Springs to reprogram the city's computers to calculate an increase from 5.5 percent to 5.6 percent of city employee's salary withheld per month for the State Retirement Fund as recommended by Favre;

—Authorized a quit claim deed to Mid-State Homes, Inc., as recommended by Gex, for Shoreline Park lot in which $381 in delinquent taxes were paid;

—Tabled clearing and lot and demolishing a building on that property at the corner of Dunbar and Boardman Avenues recently declared a public menace;

—Tabled adopting an ordinance to classify the City Board of Adjustment as a recommending body;

—Discussed a $921 additional payment to Joe Brown Engineers of Gulfport for supervision of road paving and easement work in the $241,000 1979 Small Cities Project which installed sewer and water lines for the 500 blocks of St. John, State, Easterbrook and Demottuzin Streets. Murray said HUD would pay the additional fee;

—Discussed a $5,400 additional fee for procurement of easements and appraisals for the 1979 project. Murray said HUD would also pay that additional amount;

—Discussed an approximate $2,200 payment to Burke and Associates engineers for their appraisal of city property, roads and utilities;

—Heard a report from Murray that he would need a four-drawer legal-size cabinet to store records for the 1981 project. He said funds for the cabinet would be drawn from project monies; —Heard a report and request from Morris Miller asking the council to hire private firms to operate the city's water, gas and sewer systems to improve efficiency;

—Received a proposal from Chiniche to appraise the Hancock Heights water system which the city is considering purchasing from Spashore Utilities. Favre would not reveal the proposal amount because he said the city is studying alternative appraisal methods.

Bits 'n pieces

Well, today is the day all fathers look forward to, especially the ones who are served breakfast in bed.

We wish all fathers a very Happy Fathers Day and hope it will be a pleasant day.

We are glad to see the announcement of the $400,992 grant to the Gulf Coast Emergency Medical District which is comprised of Hancock, Harrison and Jackson Counties.

The primary use of the monies will be the switching to an interference-free UHF radio system and to provide improved and expanded training for emergency medical technicians, paramedics, dispatchers and first responders.

We know a large number of Hancock residents have been involved in much of the training for the above emergency aides and it will be good for the further training of residents.

Virginia Wagner, a Bay St. Louis resident, has been involved as a chaperon and in other functions for the Miss USA contests held on the Gulf Coast during the past few years.

Well, Virginia has been named the head chaperon for the Miss Universe contest which will be televised on July 20.

We wish Virginia well in her venture, as we know she will do a fine job, and congratulate her on being selected head chaperon.

We wonder how many languages Virginia will speak when she returns from the pageant?

Motorists on Main Street will note that the four-way stop sign at Toulme has been removed.

The stop signs are for Toulme motorists only now, and we know it will take some time for us all to get used to not stopping at Toulme when traveling on Main Street.

The Bottom Line

Candid Answers To Your Questions About Advertising and Business Topics.

By S. GALE DENLEY
Associate Professor of Journalism
University of Mississippi

The local ad salespeople keep calling on me, but since I'm the only dealer in the area, I don't see any point in spending money on promotion. Do You?

Dear DY: Yes. You are engaging in what is probably the most misunderstood factor in the business world.

That is, that a non-competitive line requires no promotion.

Not only is this simply not true, it is about as far from the truth as you can get.

To be sure you may not be losing any business to a competitor who is supplying the same merchandise.

But you have two big reasons not to be complacent.

One is the opening you are leaving for a competitor, should one happen to come along. By not promoting service and the fact that you are meeting prices offered in other areas you allow local prospects, even if they now trade with you to feel that they are captive.

And when people feel this way, quite frequently they are quite willing to make a change when they have the chance.

The second point is even more important.

By not promoting your business you are losing prospects who simply are making decisions to spend their money on other types of goods.

This is the biggest competition every business has. For the marketplace has more to offer than consumers can afford to buy. And even if they can afford to buy, they must feel a real need to do so before they spend their money.

The advantages have not been called to their attention. If you had competition, both of you would be promoting regularly. The result would be more goods sold than you are presently selling.

There's no reason to believe, however, that twice as many goods would be sold. Therefore you have additional impetus to begin to promote regularly.

Complacency not only fails to generate new business, it sometimes unknowingly results in an indifferent attitude towards customers and their problems.

By promoting regularly you alert yourself, your employees, and the general buying public that you are in business to do business. Again, businesses in non-competitive situations sometimes lose sight of this fact.

Senator Cochran reports

CURBS ON CRIME

I am convinced that immediate action should be taken by the government to curb violent crime in this country.

Statistics from the Federal Bureau of Investigation reveal that violent crime and repeated criminal acts by hardened criminals is a growing menace to law-abiding Americans in almost every section of our nation.

Since 1950, the number of murders in the United States has increased by 370 percent and robberies by 300 percent. Crime jumped 10 percent nationwide in just one year alone, from 1979 to 1980.

With this in mind, I have joined a number of my Senate colleagues in a bipartisan legislative effort to do something about this problem which has reached alarming proportions.

We have introduced a resolution to express the sense of the Senate that action to combat violent crime be given national priority and receive prompt attention by appropriate law enforcement agencies and the judiciary.

The Senate Judiciary Committee recently has reported favorably a bill that I'm supporting which reinstates capital punishment for certain crimes, including treason, espionage, murder convictions in federal courts, and attempted assassination of a president.

In recent years, U.S. Supreme Court decisions have invalidated capital punishment statutes and severely restricted the imposition of the death penalty.

Another piece of legislation I am cosponsoring is a bill to end what many of us believe is an incentive to commit a criminal act while awaiting trial for another serious crime.

The weaknesses in our current system of bail and sentencing procedures have created an intolerable situation that may have contributed to the wave of crime in this country.

What has developed is this: Most criminal offenders out on bail or on their own recognizance until trial or while awaiting sentencing if already convicted, do not just sit around. Many go out in the streets and commit yet another crime against the law-abiding public or its property.

They do this because they have learned that many courts can, and judges often do, impose concurrent sentences, thus making them serve in effect only one prison term for a number of crimes.

It is estimated these so-called "career criminals," committing crimes such as auto theft, robbery, larceny and burglary, are arrested while on bail from one-fourth to nearly two-thirds of the total rate in those fields.

If we could reduce each of these crime rates by just 50 percent it would be making a tremendous inroad into the crime problem in America.

The legislation we are sponsoring would require that if an offender is convicted of two felonies, one act committed while out on bail for the first, the judge will impose consecutive prison sentences rather than just one concurrent term.

This would go a long way toward emphasizing that crime does not pay, at least two crimes for the price of one term in jail, as the present system allows.

The U.S. Senate must provide leadership in the field of criminal justice and prescribe a plan to combat effectively the intolerable rate of violent crime in America.

The people of this country are looking for aggressive action on this issue and it is up to Congress to put in motion the government response by which we can better resolve this national dilemma.

Senator Thad Cochran is sponsoring legislation again this session to provide tax incentives for those serving in National Guard and other reserve components.

His bill, S. 782, would exempt from taxation the first $5,000 earned by members of the National Guard and Reserve.

"This legislation will provide additional incentives for enlistment and retention in the reserve components of our armed forces," the senator stated.

"Our reserves play a vital role in our nation's military preparedness. They are intended to provide nearly one-half of our combat capability for the Army and two-thirds of its support capability."

He pointed out the nation's military leaders have said a strong, capable Guard and Reserve is necessary if the all-volunteer force is to succeed.

Despite the key role played by those in reserve, the nation is currently experiencing significant shortages of Guard and Reserve unit personnel.

Recent statistics indicate that by 1982, those units will be about 121,000 short.

"We cannot allow this to continue," the senator said. "In order to increase recruiting and retention, we must enhance the benefits provided our military personnel."

Health Tip

American Medical Association

Alcoholism probably has no single cause. And there are some things that do not cause alcoholism.

Alcohol alone is not the cause of alcoholism. At least nine out of ten people who drink alcohol never become alcoholics. Alcoholism is not caused by drinking a particular beverage. A person can become an alcoholic on wine, beer, whisky, gin, brandy, or anything containing alcohol. Alcoholism is not an allergy. And alcoholism is not due to an alcoholic personality. There's no such thing.

It's possible that alcoholism runs in families, but whether this is biological or environmental is uncertain. There may be an inborn error in metabolism at fault, but this theory also is unproved. And once the drinker becomes accustomed to regular heavy intake, his body sets up a demand for alcohol that must be met to prevent the "shakes" and serious physical upset. Alcoholics discover they can obtain relief from "morning after" tremors by drinking again.

Alcoholics may suffer from personality disturbances, often stemming from childhood experiences. They turn to alcohol to relieve feelings of anxiety, hostility, inferiority and depression, all of which may reflect much deeper patterns of insecurity, rage and guilt.

In some social situations, a person may be pressured to drink frequently and to excess. The eager cocktail party host seems compelled to urge "just one more" upon each guest. Often non-alcoholic beverages are not available.

Heavy drinking can be a status symbol for those who want to "belong" to an influential group where alcohol is used freely, an American Medical Association pamphlet points out.

Alcoholism creeps up on its victims. Generally, alcoholics have a greater craving for drink than do problem drinkers, and they have much less control over the urge to drink. There is little or no control once they begin to drink.

Typically, alcoholics drink heavy and often. They become severely intoxicated with steadily greater frequency. They resent comment from others on their intake. Drinking is done in secret, and excuses are made to justify heavy drinking. Temporary blackouts occur, followed by feelings of worry, anxiety and guilt over what has taken place.

Alcoholics finally lose all control. Drinking no longer is a pleasure, but becomes an instrument of destruction. They no longer can hold a job, or keep up with old friends. Marital and family problems increase.

Alcohol has taken over the individual completely.

BILL ALLAIN, ATTORNEY GENERAL

PHOTOGRAPHS CAN BE COSTLY

Attorney General Bill Allain suggests that consumers proceed with extreme caution when investing in photographs from out-of-state photographers who demand a large deposit in advance. Allain states that it is alright to pay a small deposit, but that most consumers run into trouble when they pay the full amount in advance to unfamiliar companies.

Often photographers will come into a town, make pictures, and return with very good proofs. Remember proofs are not finished products. Some salesmen will show you a finished photo on the best grade photo printing paper made, yet when you receive your pictures, they are printed on a very low grade photo paper. This is the time to insist on a refund.

Photographs can be very expensive. Remember to be on the safe side.

—Never pay a large deposit before receiving your pictures.

—Don't be misled by proofs printed in the best grade printing paper.

—Always demand your refund on the spot if you are not satisfied with the pictures.

—Deal with permanent reliable photo shops for the best product and fewer problems.

PHONY ADS

Attorney General Bill Allain warns consumers not to let anxiousness to get a job or change jobs allow you to fall victim to "help wanted" advertisements designed to trap you into buying a product or service.

Allain states that if you're not careful, instead of getting a job, you could end up spending money for useless courses, expensive resumes or costly inefficient equipment.

There are several important factors to look out for when answering "help wanted" ads. Often when you make application for the jobs advertised, you are told that you need training before you can be hired.

Then the company attempts to sell you the courses it says are needed before you qualify. After paying a lot of money for the courses or training, you probably will find that you are no better qualified than in the beginning. Ultimately you find that the company doesn't have any jobs nor can they get you a job.

Common Cause urges open meetings on Redistricting

REAPPORTIONMENT IN MISSISSIPPI: GERRYMANDERING AND SECRET MEETINGS?

During the 1981 Session, the Mississippi Legislature created the Joint Committee on Congressional Redistricting, composed of twelve senators and twelve representatives, to redraw Mississippi's five congressional districts.

The decade of 1970 to 1980 saw Mississippi's population increase from 2,216,994 to 2,511,491, with concurrent changes in the population of the five congressional districts.

Current census figures show that Rep. Jamie Whitten's first district grew from 433,825 to 494,945; David Bowen's second district population increased from 440,689 to 459,501; Sonny Montgomery's third district grew from 445,713 to 510,524; the fourth district grew from 444,704 to 497,366; and Trent Lott's fifth district, which grew the largest, from 451,981 to 549,155.

U.S. Supreme Court decisions require the realignment of the districts to achieve substantial population equality in order to conform to the Court's "one person, one vote" decisions. The deviation among districts from the ideal district (which will be 502,298) is not allowed to exceed one percent, as explained later in this memorandum.

At the initial organizational meeting of the Joint Committee on Congressional Redistricting on April 16, the 24 legislators selected officers, employed staff and counsel, and established a schedule of public hearings around the state and future meetings of the Committee.

Since June 3, the Committee has been holding public hearings across Mississippi attempting to solicit comments, suggestions, and proposed plans from members of the general public. These hearings will conclude in Hattiesburg on June 23. On July 15, the Committee has scheduled a full meeting in Jackson for the purpose of reviewing the staff report on the public hearings and then instructing the staff regarding a preliminary congressional redistricting plan; that is, the Committee will determine the basic guidelines and provisions that it wants a plan to have, and then instruct the staff to prepare a plan encompassing those basic determinations. The problem with all of this is that the agenda for the July 15 calls for all of this determination and instruction to be conducted in executive (read: secret) session.

The last item on the July 15 agenda calls for the staff to release to the public a summary of basic guidelines they will use to prepare the plan.

In the enclosed letter to members of the Joint Committee, Common Cause State Director Jere Nash urges the members to meet in the open. Nash writes: "The shape of the congressional districts will no doubt be largely determined at that July 15 meeting, and your constituents are entitled not only to know how the district lines are finally drawn, but also why the lines are drawn in the manner that they are."

The schedule of the Committee shows a meeting on August 12 for the Committee to review the proposed staff plan; a meeting on August 19 at which time a public hearing will be held on the proposed plan; and a final meeting on August 20 for the Committee to recommend a final plan to the full Legislature. A special session is tentatively set for September 1 to consider the redistricting plan.

LEGAL BACKGROUND: In 1967, in the famous Baker v. Carr case, the U.S. Supreme Court decided to enter the "political thicket" of reapportionment. The Court held that federal courts have jurisdiction over complaints against malapportioned (or unequal population) legislatures.

The Baker case involved the Tennessee General Assembly which had not reapportioned itself since 1901 despite a state constitutional mandate to do so every ten years and a dramatic growth and shift in population. The Court declined to specify a remedy in Baker but did establish guidelines in a series of decisions over the next several years.

Early in 1964, in Wesberry v. Sanders, the Court voided Georgia's congressional district plan and held that: "...the command of Art. I, Section 2, that Representatives be chosen 'by the People of the several States' means that as nearly as is practicable one man's vote in a congressional election is to be worth as much as another's."

Perhaps the most important decision came in Reynolds v. Sims in June of 1964. In Reynolds, the Court voided Alabama's state legislative district plan and held that: "The Equal Protection Clause requires that a State make an honest and good faith effort to construct districts, in both houses of its legislature, as nearly of equal population as is practicable."

The response to Baker, Wesberry, and Reynolds was predictable. Suits were filed in federal or state courts of 48 of the 50 states between 1962 and 1972 alleging violations of the equal protection clause with respect to the apportionment of one or both houses of the legislature.

Over the years, the Court has refined the "one person, one vote" standard. The Court has made a distinction between state legislative and congressional districts, allowing larger population deviations among districts in state legislative plans.

The Court has defined "as nearly of equal population as is practicable" standard of Reynolds under the equal protection clause to allow maximum population deviations among state legislative districts of up to ten percent.

The Court has allowed somewhat greater deviations if justified by rational state policy, such as the desire to respect the boundaries of political subdivisions.

The Court has defined the "as nearly as is practicable" standard of Wesberry under Article I, Section 2 of the Constitution to require as close to mathematical equality as is reasonably possible for congressional districts, which has been interpreted to be less than one percent.

While the Supreme Court has secured substantial population equality among legislative and congressional districts, it has been unresponsive to reapportionment challenges based on charges of political or racial gerrymandering.

Districts of bizarre configurations admittedly designed to serve personal or partisan ends have been upheld if they meet the population test.

The Court has indicated that it will scrutinize carefully charges of racial gerrymandering.

The substantial population equality required by the Court is not a total answer to the representation question. The Court has not guaranteed fair district lines.

The problem of political gerrymandering has replaced population inequality as the major obstacle to "fair and effective representation for all citizens," as articulated in Reynolds.

Gerrymandering has been defined as discriminatory districting which operates to inflate unduly the political strength of one group or person and deflate that of another. It is usually, but not exclusively, manifested in the manipulation of the shape of legislative or congressional districts.

Political gerrymandering is a political tool that has a long history in American politics. The gerrymander was named after Elbridge Gerry, Governor of Massachusetts in 1812 when the Legislature created a peculiar salamander-shaped district to benefit Gerry's Democratic Party.

It lives on today. Political gerrymandering is generally an attempt by incumbent legislators and majority parties in legislatures to draw district lines that perpetuate their positions of power within the status quo.

Gerrymandering attempts to pre-determine electoral results. Competition is minimized, which undermines the system of competitive elections on which our representative democracy is based.

By helping to reduce electoral competition, gerrymandering dilutes the value of political participation, undermines legislative responsiveness to constituent views, and weakens political parties.

Electoral competition forces the political process to be responsive to new ideas and new people. In the enclosed letter, Common Cause Director Jere Nash outlines some standards that would substantially reduce the opportunity for political gerrymandering.

Few issues capture the attention of state legislators more easily than reapportionment - the decennial geographical division of constituents into legislative districts for voting purposes.

In the past, few rules have existed to safeguard the public interest; the guiding principle for most incumbent legislators has been self-protection. Secret deals and meetings and gerrymandering can be avoided in 1981 if Mississippians get involved in the reapportionment process.

The opportunities are certainly there to get involved, in ways that have never existed before.

Members of the Standing Joint Congressional Redistricting Committee and the Standing Joint Legislative Committee on Reapportionment include:

AT LARGE
Representative Thomas H. Campbell III, Representative Ed Buelow Jr., Senator William T. Harpole and Senator Henry J. Kirksey.

FIRST DISTRICT
Representative Kenneth O. Williams, Representative Ralph Doxy, Senator Charles Ray Nix and Senator John H. Waldrop.

SECOND DISTRICT
Representative H.L. (Sonny) Merideth Jr., Representative Bruce Hanson, Senator Jack Gordon, and Senator John K. (Buddy) Gresham.

THIRD DISTRICT
Representative Joe Blount, Representative Robert G. Clark, Senator John E. Lee and Senator C.R. Montgomery.

FOURTH DISTRICT
Representative Horace L. Buckley, Representative Thomas H. Walman, Senator James L. Caldwell and Senator Con Maloney.

FIFTH DISTRICT
Representative Stone D. Barefield, Representative James D. S. Simpson, Senator George Smith and Senator Martin Smith of Pearl River and Hancock Counties.

With the Joint Legislative Committee on Congressional Redistricting scheduled to have a secret meeting on July 15 to redraw Mississippi's five congressional districts, Common Cause has sent a letter to the Committee members urging them to meet in the open.

Common Cause-Mississippi State Director writes in the letter: "The shape of the congressional districts will no doubt be largely determined at that July 15 meeting, and your constituents are entitled not only to know how the district lines are finally drawn, but also why the lines are drawn in the manner that they are. A plan conceived in secret will do little to encourage public confidence in the reapportionment process at a time when the committee should be working to ensure public support and understanding of the plan."

According to Common Cause, the agenda for that July 15 meeting calls for an executive session for the committee to instruct the staff regarding a preliminary redistricting plan, with the staff then scheduled to release to the public a summary of the basic guidelines determined during the secret meeting.

"The work of this committee will be with Mississippians for the next ten years, and they are entitled to know more than a summary of the reasons for redrawing the districts," said Nash.

The letter also urges the committee to adopt a set of standards for use by the committee to substantially reduce the opportunity for political gerrymandering.

Text of the letter follows, as well as the organization's suggested code and guidelines for fair redistricting: June 15, 1981

Honorable Members of the Joint Committee on Congressional Redistricting

Gentlemen: I appreciated very much having the opportunity to testify before you on June 3, and I hope you will adopt the recommendations I outlined in my testimony.

With a month before the crucial July 15 meeting of the Committee, I think it is important to reiterate Common Cause's major concerns with the congressional redistricting process.

First, we believe it would be in the best interests of the Committee and the public that you adopt standards to guide the Committee in its redrawing of the district lines.

Complying with fair and objective standards would bolster the acceptability of any plan, would give the public a benchmark against which to evaluate the efforts of the Committee, and would curtail the opportunities for political gerrymandering.

Those standards are described in detail in the enclosure and include substantial population equality, respecting the integrity of political subdivisions, maintenance of districts that are contiguous and compact, and drawing a plan to be as nearly representative to the citizenry as possible to allow economic and racial groups an opportunity to be effectively represented.

A plan should not be drawn for the purpose of favoring any political party or incumbent officeholder, nor for the purpose of diluting the voting strength of any racial minority group.

Second, it is extremely important that the Committee hold its meetings in the open and with adequate advance notice.

While the agenda for the July 15 meeting calls for a secret session, we urge the Committee to continue the practice that was initiated at the April 16 meeting of holding these sessions in the open.

The shape of the congressional districts will no doubt be largely determined at that July 15 meeting, and your constituents are entitled not only to know how the district lines are finally drawn, but also why the lines are drawn in the manner that they are.

A plan conceived in secret will do little to encourage public confidence in the reapportionment process at a time when your Committee should be working to ensure public support and understanding of the plan.

Your Committee has the responsibility of providing for "fair and effective representation" in Congress for 2.5 million Mississippians. We commend you for discharging that responsibility in a manner that has been open to public participation and scrutiny, and we urge you to continue. Thank you.

With respect,
Jere Nash
State Director
Common Cause-Mississippi

Enclosure
COMMON CAUSE CODE FOR FAIR REDISTRICTING

In order to achieve the goal of "fair and effective representation for all citizens," as articulated by the U.S. Supreme Court in Reynolds v. Sims (1964), Common Cause believes standards should be adopted by the Joint Legislative Committee on Congressional Redistricting that would substantially reduce the opportunity for political gerrymandering (that is, the practice of manipulating district lines for personal or partisan benefit, such as protecting incumbents).

Since the U.S. Supreme Court decision in Baker v. Carr (1962), it has invalidated redistricting plans on two grounds - unequal population and racial discrimination.

While some lower courts have held the practice of political gerrymandering unconstitutional, the U.S. Supreme Court has not yet voided a redistricting scheme on that basis.

By helping to reduce electoral competition, gerrymandering dilutes the value of political participation, undermines legislative responsiveness to constituent views, and weakens political parties.

Electoral competition forces the political process to be responsive to new ideas and new people. Without competition, political parties lack the incentive to recruit or put forward their best candidates.

Competition is an essential factor in giving citizens a chance to have their ideas and issues given serious consideration during the electoral process.

The problem of political gerrymandering has replaced population inequality as the major obstacle to "fair and effective representation."

Common Cause believes it is essential that citizens have confidence in the final redistricting plan, that they believe the process yielded "fair and effective representation" for them.

GUIDELINES FOR DRAWING THE DISTRICTS

(1) Congressional districts shall have population as nearly equal as is practicable based on the population reported in the federal census. No district for election of members of the United States House of Representatives shall have a population which varies by more than one percent from the average population of all congressional districts.

(2) To the extent consistent with (1), district lines shall be drawn to coincide with the boundaries of local political subdivisions. The number of counties and municipalities divided among more than one district shall be as small as possible. No county or municipality shall be divided among more than two districts that also include other counties or municipalities.

(3) Districts shall be composed of convenient contiguous territory. Land areas shall be deemed contiguous if they share a common land border or are connected by a highway or bridge. Areas separated by unbridged water shall be contiguous to the nearest land area only when necessary to comply with (1) or (2). Areas which share common borders at the points of adjoining corners shall not be deemed contiguous.

(4) Districts shall be compact in form. The aggregate length of all district boundaries shall be as short as practicable, consistent with (1), (2), and (3).

(5) Consistent with (1), (2), (3), and (4), the redistricting plan shall be as nearly representative of the citizenry as possible to allow economic, racial, and political groups an opportunity to be effectively represented.

(6) No plan shall be drawn for the purpose of favoring any political party or incumbent officeholder or other person or group.

(7) No district shall be drawn for the purpose of diluting the voting strength of any racial minority group.

PUBLIC

PARTICIPATION

GUIDELINES

(1) Citizens shall be given ample opportunity to participate in developing redistricting plans and to comment on proposals. All meetings of the Legislature and its committees shall be open to the public (with adequate advance notice), and all reports, records of proceedings, standards, data, and computer programs used to develop plans shall be available to the public.

(2) The Joint Legislative Committee shall, prior to the referral of the plan to the Legislature, publish a report describing the standards and data used to prepare the plan and provide reasons for population deviations, districts that split counties or municipalities, and other tradeoffs.

Weather outlook

WEATHER OUTLOOK

Farmers can expect near normal temperatures for the next 30 days, according to the National Weather Service outlook distributed by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Reinfall should be above normal in the north and in the Delta and below normal in other parts of the state, say agrometeorologists at the Mid-South Farm Weather Service, in Stoneville, who prepare the forecasts. High humidity and high temperatures will be the rule. Fronts are less frequent, say weather experts, and upper level and tropical systems become more important.

Poultrymen should be alert for days with humidity above 50 and highs forecast in the upper 90s. Hay production usually tapers off, depending on rainfall patterns. Most of Mississippi started the 30-day period with adequate pasture moisture.

Farmers are expected to finish soybean planting quickly, and irrigation will become more important by mid-July. Weather experts warn farmers who are irrigating that evaporation rates can be high on days with temperatures in the upper 90s, low humidity near 30, strong winds and sunny skies. Last year nearly one-half inch per day of pan evaporation was measured under these conditions.

VA *****
Questions

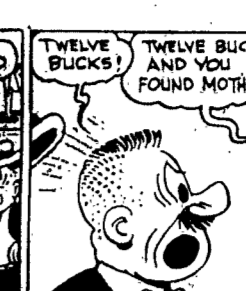

Q. As an honorably discharged veteran, I understand that I am entitled to Veterans Administration medical benefits. Are there any benefits for my family?

A. Your family is not entitled to care in a VA facility. There is a medical insurance program called CHAMPVA available to families of totally disabled service connected veterans.

Q. My brother and I entered active duty prior to Dec. 31, 1976. I was honorably discharged on Dec. 31, 1979, and he was honorably discharged on Feb. 25, 1980. Would we both have the same delimiting date of Jan. 1, 1980, for our education benefits?

A. The final cutoff date for receipt of Chapter 34 education benefits is Dec. 31, 1980. As a result of this, anyone eligible for these benefits released from active duty after Dec. 31, 1979, will have a delimiting date of Dec. 31, 1980.

SEA COAST ECHO—SUNDAY, JUNE 21, 1981-7A

By Katy

McGuire

Caire

Don't you wish that you could have been there...way up yonder in New York City's Central Park on that recent Sunday when hundreds of transplanted Mississippians gathered for their second reunion and "Way Up North in Mississippi" sort of dinner-on-the-grounds Southern style? You can believe that they showed the "Big Apple" how we do it down in Mississippi—complete to fried chicken, blackeye peas, and all those other famed Magnolia state dishes.

As Betty Guillaud said beforehand in her column, "Lagniappe" in the New Orleans States-Item, "What started last year as an impromptu romp in a Manhattan park for some misplaced Mississippians has turned into a Gotham gala."

And as later reports said, the Mississippians made their mark on Manhattan.

Our own governor, William Winter, presented a magnolia tree to be planted in Central Park, for "all Mississippians to pay homage to" when in Yankeeeland. And there was a dessert contest, a watermelon seed "spittin'" and thumping contest, a grits sculpture contest, a "snake-skinning" contest (our Southern name for a three-legged race) and even rebel yells from time to time.

As Eileen Putnam wrote in her story for the Associated Press, it proved that "you can take a Mississippian out of the South, but you can't take him from his Southern ways."

She went on to say that Craig Claiborne, stellar transplanted Mississippian and food editor of the New York Times, among his many accomplishments and judge of the dessert contest, was "disappointed that there weren't many pecan pies among the contenders."

But, he said that he plans a trip home soon—shall we ask him to come sample our pecan pies here on the Coast?

Pecan pies, of course, are one of the traditional South's most traditional delicacies...and with many variations and recipes. Some cooks prefer brown sugar, others cane syrup—but they're all good.

Whether you make pecan pies in large size or miniature, this is a true ending to a delightful meal, as well as a favorite at coffee or tea party time.

One of the tastiest versions to me is Myriel Vaccaro's Petit Pecan Pies, made in tiny muffin pans. Myriel (Mammie to her younger generations, among whom I proudly claim her granddaughter, Joan Wood McGuire as one of my two delectable daughters-in-law) shares with me a love of cooking. This is an easy recipe, and delicious. Here's Mammie's

PETIT PECAN PIES

3 oz. pkg. cream cheese (Philadelphia)
1 stick butter
1 cup flour, measured and sifted

Blend the cheese and butter with the flour into a ball, then chill in the refrigerator for an hour. Divide dough into 24 small balls and line small muffin tins. For the filling:

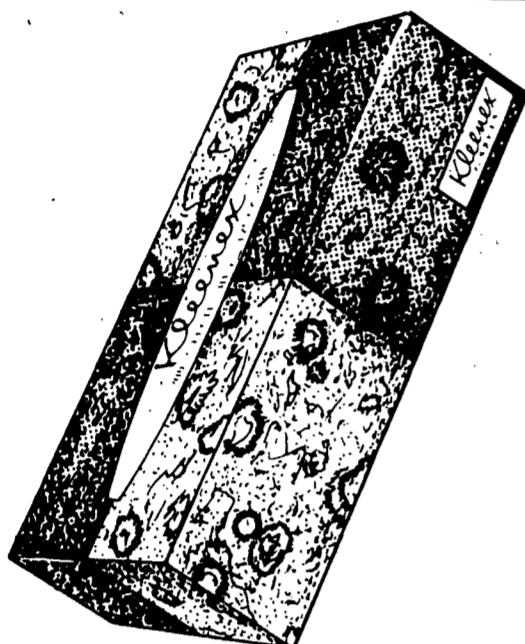

Two-thirds cup broken pecans
1 large egg
1 cup packed light brown sugar
1 tbsp. soft butter

1 tsp. vanilla
Pinch of salt

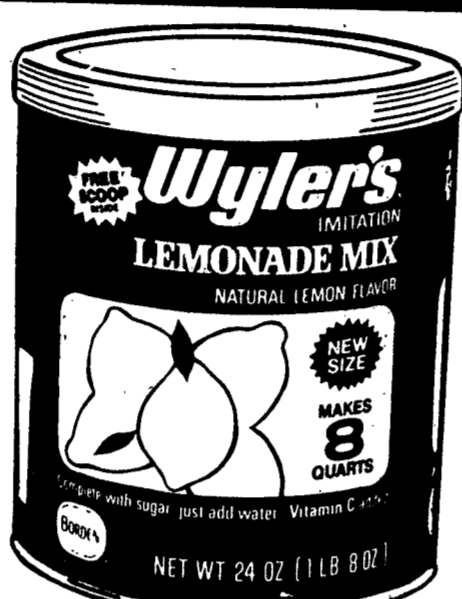

Beat the egg, but not very much, and add the other ingredients, except the pecans. Drop by spoon a few pieces of pecan into each shell, add the filling to each shell, a generous teaspoon or so. Bake 25-30 minutes at 350 degrees, and be sure to make room a few inches around, for they'll disappear in record time!

Drownings

the cavity with barges and tires which would create an artificial fishing reef. The county and United States Government are defendants in lawsuits totalling almost $8 million filed by survivors of deep hole drowning victims Number 17 through 24.

In September a trial in U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Mississippi in Biloxi will decide all the liability cases.

All of those victims drowned on weekend afternoons in June during a four-year period.

The following drowning accounts are based on official civil defense reports.

NUMBER 17

Francisco J. Verrett, 22, of 1930 Gentilly Blvd. in New Orleans drowned in the deep hole at 6:30 p.m. Sunday, June 13, 1976.

Verrett went under while he was swimming with Gregory Berry and Stephen Guard, both of New Orleans.

The Mississippi Water Safety Patrol and Waveland's Police and Fire Departments were contacted.

Ronnie and Mickey Ferrell dragged the area by boat in an attempt to locate Verrett's body.

At 8 p.m. June 15, two days later, Verrett's body washed ashore near the intersection of Beach Boulevard and Sears Avenue in Waveland.

NUMBERS 18-23

Three females and three males, all of New Orleans, drowned in the hole on June 4, 1977 just two months after warning signs were posted in the area.

At 7:45 p.m. Waveland police received a telephone call from Karl Koerner of Slidell that a boat had overturned in the deep hole.

Investigator Robert (Poochie) Tartavouille responded to the call. He did not find an overturned boat, but witnesses reported possibly eight persons had drowned.

All those missing were members of The Second Light Church of New Orleans.

Two of the eight thought drowned were accounted for later during the day.

Dragging operations offshore in the vicinity of the hole found four of the victims the next day.

On June 5, the bodies of: —Peter Wells Jr., 24, of 1106 South Johnson St. was found at 9 a.m.; —Demetrius Myles, 14, was found at 9:25 a.m.

—Randall T. Shorts, 15, of 2021 Burdette St. was found 1:20 p.m.; —Freddie Brown, 17, of 2021 Burdette St. was found at 2:55 p.m.

—Harry Robinson Butler of 7925 Hammond St. was found at 4:50 p.m.

Two days later a fisherman found the body of Shavella Price, 16, at 4:50 p.m. floating in the Mississippi Sound.

NUMBER 24

At 1 p.m. Sunday, June 3, 1979 Herbert Gauthier of Louisiana reported to Waveland police that a man apparently drowned in the deep hole.

James Varnell, Richard Pate and Gauthier went out into the area in the civil defense boat to try to find the victim.

Lee Ferrell and Pepper Thomas assisted in the search in a State Park Commission boat.

The body of Dale J. Remy, 23, of Route 6, Box 446 in Slidell was found at 2:45 p.m. that day by the searchers.

NUMBER 25

AS REPORTED BY THE SEA COAST ECHO IN THE JUNE 4, 1981 ISSUE

A Slidell man drowned (Sunday afternoon) while saving two of his stepdaughters.

Robert (Bobby) Boudin, civil defense director, Monday said city police used a bullhorn to try to call the trio back to shore, but they apparently didn't hear the call as they carelessly played in the shallow Mississippi Sound waters and dropped into the deadly cavity.

The director reported that police radioed a Mississippi Bureau of Marine Resources boat to pick up the three, but as they watched from shore and the rescue boat sped from Pass Christian, Floyd Crawford, 29, became stuck knee-deep in the hole's muddy bottom and drowned.

Before Crawford died he managed to free two of his stepdaughters, Felicia Robins, 16, and Tonia Robins, 13, from the hole's deadly grip.

Boudin said Crawford reportedly threw one of the girls to safety and pushed another out as he became trapped underwater in the mud and salt water filled his lungs.

Carl Banderet, county coroner, Monday said Crawford was found at 7:15 a.m. that day 'standing straight up' in the holes bottom mud.

Lee Ferrell, retired Waveland Fire Department fire marshal and veteran deep hole body retriever, confirmed mud was found up to Crawford's knees and left forearm as he was pulled from about six feet of water over the hole.

Awards

annual meeting at the Broadwater Beach Hotel in Biloxi.

Ducomb received the award for stories published in 1980 which include:

—Five articles reporting investigations of tornado damage repairs at Gulfview Elementary School;

—A story explaining aspects of a federal flood insurance study;

—A report of how electric usage by Borg-Warner Chemical's Port Blanche plant will delay rural electric rate hikes;

—Two articles revealing Westinghouse Corp.'s plans to locate its furniture plant north of Pass Christian;

—Two articles revealing an application for a U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' permit to locate a concrete plant on Bayou LaCrosse and residents' reaction to the facility moving near the waterway;

—Five articles exploring various aspects of child abuse.

Other local newspapers winning awards in various Daily Division categories included:

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of silk organza over bridal taffeta, with fitted lace bodice embellished with seed pearls. Her tiered veil of illusion was held by a lace capelet, edged with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and baby's breath with white lace streamers.

Miss Cathy Scanlan, sister of the groom was maid of honor. Mrs. Barbara Worrel, and Miss Mary Alice Fayard, sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids.

The attendants wore long formal gowns of light blue, with long, sheer flowered blue jackets with short kimono sleeves.

They carried bouquets of blue tinted carnations and baby's breath with blue satin streamers.

Billy LeFebvre served as best man.

Groomsmen were Scott Fayard, brother of the bride; and Robert Scanlan, uncle of the groom.

Ushers were Edward J. Fayard, brother of the bride and Donnie Rida.

The reception following the ceremony was held in St. Clare's parish hall.

Assisting at the reception was Mrs. Marilyn Fayard, aunt of the bride; and Mrs. Paula Fayard, cousin of the bride. Mrs. Herbert Lytell, aunt of the bride, presided at the cake table.

For traveling the bride wore a soft peach and blue sundress, with matching jacket and white accessories.

The couple will reside in Metairie, La.

Old time churches served as community centers

THE OLD TIME CHURCH

In the old time churches when I grew up 70 to 80 years ago, the older people — the pillars of the church — sat up in the corner next to the preacher.

The country church in my community had two front doors. The men went in at one door and the women at the other, the women sitting on one side, the men on the other. This old church was well filled with uncomfortable home-made benches all fronting toward the preacher and the pulpit for about three-quarters of the way down. On each side of the pulpit were other benches placed at right angles to those in the main body of the church, the men on the preachers right and the women on his left.

The corner where the deacons and older men sat on the preacher's right was known as the Amen Corner. Whether true or not, I always thought, as a boy, that this arrangement was planned so that these older men and women could keep one eye on the young people further back in the church.

Another thing I used to wonder about was how a church member got promoted to the Amen corner. While no one ever told me, the idea lodged in my mind somehow that when they reached a certain age and gained prestige and respect in the church they just walked over and started sitting in the Amen corner.

The boys who went to that church were not supposed to sit in the back of the church. I knew better than to stop too far back so always went up within two or three benches of the front.

We had services once a month. The preacher would come on Saturday, arriving about noon. The older people would attend what they called church conference, which was the business meeting, that afternoon. Then we would have the regular monthly preaching service at 11 a.m. on Sunday.

All in all, we had good preachers. Two that I remember well made good talks within the understanding of everyone.

Another we had was just noisy—I never did understand what he was driving at. He did not stay long as pastor of that church.

Another we had was so long-winded that he would tire everybody out, preaching sometimes for two to two-and-a-half hours. Neither did he stay long.

Occasionally we had special services when some new preacher or a missionary came along. I remember a missionary from Persia who came to our house and spent the night.

He showed us children how they wrote in that country, which was exactly backwards from our way of writing.

Another time a preacher they were considering as a pastor came to visit our community. He made a good impression on everyone while visiting around among the people.

As we had no pastor, he preached at the regular monthly Sunday morning service. He had not been going long when he said he simply could not preach with his coat on. He shrugged off his coat and laid it across the pulpit.

A little later he said he could not get warmed up to preach a real sermon without rolling up his sleeves, which he proceeded to do. A few minutes later he said that he had never been able to do his best with a necktie on, so off came the tie.

As we started back home after the service was over, an uncle with us asked my father, "What did you think of him?" My father replied, "Well, he never did get off enough clothes." That preacher was not called in that church.

Another preacher we had made a good impression and for about 30 minutes made a good talk, but he did not seem to know how to stop.

He wore everybody out and did not last long. The benches in that old church were uncomfortable to begin with but after about an hour they were almost unbearable.

I well remember to this day, after about 80 years, how I used to twist and squirm and move about trying to get into a more comfortable spot.

I was afraid to move about too much as I was always under the watchful eye of my mother who sat in the women's section of the Amen corner.

If I had to pick the most miserable moments of my life it would be while sitting there on an uncomfortable bench during the second hour of a long-winded preacher's sermon on a blazing hot summer day with sweat pouring down my back in that oven-like temperature.

The big event of the year in that community was the Big Meeting. The time was set well in advance. A "powerful" evangelist was secured, the church and the grounds were put in "apple-pie" order.

The women all did their best in preparing for the "dinner-on-the-grounds." They loaded the tables with all kinds of good food. Never since have I seen so much good food at one time. I would like to go back to an old time Big Meeting like we used to have, only I am afraid I would eat too much.

At the Big Meeting the preacher and all the consecrated members struggled with the devil and sought to add many members to the church. The good food brought the crowds and filled the church. Many members were added to the church at the Big Meeting.

One summer an old disreputable sot who lived near our community came to church regularly. He was under conviction from the start. In a day or so he joined the church.

This sinner had been snatched from the jaws of hell, to the joy of the faithful. He began immediately to take a big interest in getting others to join the church. He became one of the best workers in that revival.

Finally the preacher decided that he was worthy to be asked to lead in prayer. He called on him. The old man prayed from his heart with an eloquence rarely heard, reaching the hearts of everyone who heard him.

Whether it actually happened or not—I did not hear it myself — people for years afterwards told of the trouble this man had when he came to the end of his prayer.

He had never prayed before and had no occasion to use the word before and he could not for the life of him think of the word "Amen."

He kept going, repeating himself, desperately trying to think of the word till the people were all so tired from being so long on their knees. Finally he gave up hope and ended the prayer with the only ending he could think of, "Sincerely Yours."

In my opinion it was not such a bad way to end a prayer.

Church back then was a place where people met and visited. In fact church was the only place in our community where people gathered.

The young people were good attendants, especially the marriageable young women and eligible young men. Many a romance bloomed and reached its climax at the old time country church.

My mother had a way of asking us what the preacher preached about and was displeased if one could not tell. My parents like most in that area took their religion most seriously and expected their children to do so. Church was a sacred thing to them.

NEWLY BAPTIZED

Kindly remember in your prayers, Jefferey Prentice Wallace Jr., the son of Jefferey P. Wallace Sr. and Carol Singleton, who was baptized last Sunday at St. Rose.

FAMILY PORTRAITS

The session planned for taking family portraits this Sunday has been postponed till some later date since an insufficient number of applicants was received to warrant Majestic Studio to make the trip.

CSA APPEAL

Our diocesan Catholic Sharing Appeal is coming to completion. As of our last report, 78 of a possible 213 visits were completed. A total of 47 gifts were pledged, amounting to $2,247, 41 percent of our projected goal. We hope to finish this week. The first monthly statement will be mailed from the diocesan appeal office by July 7 to those who have pledged a gift over a period of time. Payment should then be made directly to Biloxi.

NEW PASTOR

Parishioners are invited to meet the new pastor of Valena C. Jones United Methodist Church, Rev. Arthur Lewis, this Sunday. A reception will be given after the 11 a.m. services, about 12:15 p.m.

FAIR CONTEST

The following young ladies have entered the Miss St. Rose Contest: Miss Angelique Bell, sponsored by the Altar Society; Miss Yvette Hazaur, sponsored by the Jueves Fille Charmantes Club; and Miss Frances Smith, sponsored by the CYO.

The following are the contestants for Little Miss of St. Rose: Andrea Collins, daughter of Mrs. Edna Collins; Lynnea Johnson, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Mercader; and Araina Whavers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Whavers.

We thank the sponsors and parents of these contestants for their special contribution. Please give them your support.

BAY CATHOLIC SCHOOL

A Religious Education advisory committee is planning and evaluating the 1981-82 religion program for Bay Catholic Elementary and Our Lady's Academy. All parents interested in the total Christian atmosphere of the school are invited to attend an open meeting this Monday at 7:30 p.m. in OLA's new building, behind OLG church. Parents are urged to present their concerns, their suggestions and to offer their help with programs.

FAIR ADS

The Fair ad committee would like to run a full page ad in The Sea Coast Echo advertising our Fair for a "fair" profit. Ads are $5, $10, and $20. Ethel Weaver and Tina Williams will be soliciting ads after each Mass this week.

Former SSC teacher gets national office

Brother Adrian Gaudin, SC, former principal of Catholic High School in Baton Rouge, La., was installed president of the National Assembly of Religious Brothers (NARB) at that organization's annual and it is invited to have representation on practically all major Catholic national organizations.

The current membership of NARB is over 650 brothers, representing more than 76 different religious communities of men in the United States. It also has membership throughout the world. A native of New Orleans and a 1951 graduate of St. Aloysius High School there, Brother Adrian has a bachelor's degree from Spring Hill College in Mobile, Alabama, and a master's degree from Loyola University in New Orleans.

Currently, he is on a two-year sabbatical, completing work on a master's degree in theology from the Jesuit School of Applied Theology at the Graduate Theological Union in Berkeley, Calif.

Besides having served as principal of Catholic High in Baton Rouge, Brother Adrian has also been principal of Ascension Catholic High School in Donaldsonville, La., and Bishop Dunne High School in Dallas, Texas.

He has also taught at schools of the Brothers of the Sacred Heart in New Orleans; Bay St. Louis; Mobile, Ala.; Metuchen, N.J.; and Long Island, N.Y.

BROTHER ADRIAN

convention in Boston, Mass. June 18-21.

A member of this national organization for five years, Brother Adrian served as local host when the national convention was held in New Orleans in 1979.

He has held the office of secretary and last year was elected vice-president and president-elect. He will serve a two-year term as president. NARB was founded in 1922 to give religious brothers of all communities opportunities to meet, pray, and grow together. It has since received official national recognition.

Knights' Notes

By PETER SCIANNIA

Pere Le Duc elected its officers for the 1981-82 term at a meeting Monday night at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Main Street in Bay St. Louis.

Grand Knight Bob Hubbard was re-elected by acclamation of the 39 Knights attending the meeting.

Paul Seckso was chosen also by acclamation to be Deputy Grand Knight. Brother Seckso is currently program director for the council.

The position of treasurer will be filled by Richard Smith, present membership chairman, while Mel Estrade was elected chancellor.

Tony Scavo has been elected warden and Leslie Blaize and Tony Morreale will serve as inside and outside guards, respectively.

Brother Morreale has been outside guard for more than 30 years.

Serving as advocate will be Ed Friloux and Peter Scianna will act as recorder.

Serving as advocate will be Ed Friloux and Peter Scianna will act as recorder.

George diBenedetto present treasurer, was chosen a three-year trustee, joining C.J. Piazza, two-year trustee, and Noel Fuente, one-year trustee.

Joe Richardson will continue to serve as financial secretary.

Induction of officers will take place later this summer. The council offers its congratulations to all those chosen as officers. Guests at this special meeting were Father Joe Mercier of Gulfport, and Henry Pullizzano Jr., a former member of Pere Le Duc Council.

A family in distress found help this weekend through the efforts of Brother Ed Friloux. The family, from Atlanta, including three small children and a five-week old infant, were travelling home from Houston where they had visited the children's ailing grandparents.

When the family reached Diamondhead, they were out of gas and money. They had sold some of their possessions to get this far.

Except for the infant, whose formula had been prepared, the family had not eaten for three days.

Brother Friloux came to their aid with the assistance of Father Austin of Annunciation Church in Kiln, and the Salvation Army in Biloxi.

Ed was able to get the family transportation, food, lodging, and money. When he contacted the Salvation Army to tell of the family's plight, Ed was told, "Gee, we didn't think people were that nice anymore."

Monday Ed received word that the family was safely back home. The council recognizes and thanks Brother Friloux and all those who helped him for coming to the rescue of this troubled family.

Whenever he is passing through Pass Christian, Leslie Blaize stops over at St. Paul's Parish and fills in as usher at several of the Masses.

He also will help them with their games when several of their workers go on summer vacation.

The Council wished Phil Kergosien a speedy recovery in the hospital and asks that all remember him in their prayers.

Baptists sponsoring country music show

"Country Crossroads," a half-hour of country music entertainment and inspiration, can now be heard on WXGR-AM each Sunday at 10:30 a.m.

"Country Crossroads" is a public service presentation featuring the music of Bill Anderson, Loretta Lynn, Kenny Rogers, Charley Pride, Crystal Gale, The Statler Brothers, The Oak Ridge Boys, Dolly Parton and others.

Interspersed with the country recordings that are high on the charts are personal interviews with some of the stars who are playing and singing these hit songs and interviews with other figures in the country music field.

These personalities share with the "Country

Crossroads" audience their thoughts on life and lyrics and their personal experiences.

Co-hosts of the show are Bill Mack, a familiar name to country music lovers, and humorist Jerry Clower.

Mack has been recognized nationally three times as Country Music Deejay of the Year.

Clower, a Grand Ole Opry star, is another regular. The "Country Crossroads" family is rounded out each week by a third guest host.

"Country Crossroads" is produced by the Southern Baptist Radio and Television Commission and has won several industry awards for excellence.

In addition to WXGR in Bay St. Louis, the program is carried by some 1,200 other stations in the U.S.

Arts and crafts sale slated at Fairgrounds

Handcrafted items made by senior artists and craftsmen of Hancock, Harrison and Jackson Counties will be featured at a flea market sale from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday and Saturday, June 26 and 27 at the Fairgrounds, Longfellow Road, Bay St. Louis.

The sale will be sponsored by the Senior Aide Program in Hancock County, according to Mrs. Wilma Miller, local senior aide.

Proceeds from the event will be used in development of the Toll House, a senior arts and crafts retail outlet planned for the old toll collection station on the Henderson Point side of the Bay St. Louis US-90 automobile bridge.

Florence Adkins, director of the Senior Aide Program on the Coast, said her operation is funded by the U.S. Department of Labor through South Mississippi Planning and Development District.

Miller said donations of handmade items are still being accepted for the sale, noting donors are not limited to seniors.

For information, call Miller at 467-7677.

Pulpit Points

BY DR. L.S. WALKER

For something a little different, though certainly not new, may I share with you this week a revised edition of the story of the Little Red Hen and her wheat growing experiences.

Once upon a time, the familiar but practical story begins, there was a little red hen who scratched about and found some grains of wheat.

She called her barnyard neighbors and said, "If we work together and plant this wheat, we will have some fine bread to eat. Who will help me plant the wheat?" "Not I," said the cow. "Not I," said the duck. "Not I," said the pig. "Then I will," said the little red hen, and she did.

The wheat grew tall and ripened into golden grain. "Who will help me reap my wheat?" asked the little red hen. "Not I," said the cow. "Not I," said the duck. "Not I," said the pig. "Then I will," said the little red hen, and she did.

She baked five loaves of fine bread and held them all up for her neighbors to see. They all wanted some, and even demanded their share. But the little red hen said, "No, I can rest awhile, and eat the five loaves myself."

"Excess profits," said the cow. "Capitalistic leach," screamed the duck. "Company fink," grunted the pig. "Equal rights," yelled the goose. So they hurriedly painted picket signs and then marched around the little red hen and sang, "We shall overcome," and they did.

For when the farmer came, he said, "You must not be so greedy, little red hen. Look at the oppressed cow. Look at the underprivileged pig. Look at the disadvantaged duck. Look at the unfortunate goose. You are making second-class citizens of them. But, but, I earned this bread," said the little red hen.

"Exactly," said the farmer. "That is the wonderful free enterprise system. Anybody in the barnyard can earn as much as he wants. You should be happy to have this freedom."

Nothing turns out right unless someone makes it his job to see that it does. If we are ever justified in expecting something better, we must endeavor to do better.

When you make your work important, it usually returns the favor.

In other barnyards you'd have to give all five loaves to the farmer. Here you give four loaves to your suffering neighbors."

And they lived happily ever after, including the little red hen who smiled and said, "I am grateful." But her neighbors wondered why she never baked any more bread.

There is certainly a moral lesson found in the above story for our day.

It is the Biblical responsibility of Christian churches to attend to the needs of the indigent among her member families to the best of their abilities to do so.

It is also the moral responsibility of government and society in general to make provision for such. But it is not their responsibility to support, through taxation or otherwise, able-bodied freeloaders, social leaches, deadbeats and criminals.

"For even when we were with you, this we commanded you, that if any would not work, neither should they eat. For we hear that there are some which walk among you disorderly, working not at all, but are busybodies."

Now them that are such we command and exhort by our Lord Jesus Christ, that with quietness they work, and eat their own bread" - II Thess. 3:10-12.

Knowing that idleness was never best for depraved humanity, Our Creator determined from the beginning that "in the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; for out of it wast thou taken: for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return" - Gen. 3:19.

In the measure of strength God has given unto you, do not ask for an easy task. Pray to be stronger.

Looking for a soft job is the job of a soft man. Don't worry about the job you don't like; someone else will soon have it. The best job insurance is a job that is done well.

Nothing turns out right unless someone makes it his job to see that it does. If we are ever justified in expecting something better, we must endeavor to do better.

When you make your work important, it usually returns the favor.

FRUIT AND NUT CARE

Spray peaches, plums, bunch grapes, pears and apples according to recommended schedule to insure quality fruits. We have spray schedules at the County Extension Office in Bay St. Louis.

Thin peaches, plums, apples and pears if trees are overladen. Thin when fruit is three-fourths of an inch in size and before seeds begin to harden. Thin peaches four to six inches apart; apples and pears six to eight inches apart.

Prune and train young trees by removing suckers on the trunk and by thinning branches during the growing season.

Be sure to water recently transplanted trees frequently #### in dry weather.

SORGHUM BEHIND WHEAT?

If you plan to plant grain sorghum behind wheat, be prepared for potential problems you may not have with earlier plantings.

The main problem in planting after wheat is not enough moisture for a quick, uniform stand.

Most of our wheat is harvested in late May to early June, meaning sorghum won't be planted until after about June 10 when rain is less frequent.

Another problem is insects. Budworms and midges are much more active in late sorghum. Lesser corn stalk borers can damage late stands; where this insect normally wouldn't be a

There's an Answer!

by Norman Vincent Peale and Ruth Stafford Peale

Stress or the Devil?

Q. I have a terrible fear of my sanity. I can't seem to get the bad thoughts out and thinking I'm going to kill. The local mental health center tells me it's from stress and trying to raise a very hyperactive 2-year-old.

My pastor tells me it's the Devil and the way I harbor bad thoughts. I pray all the time that my fears and worries will go away. Why am I not getting any results? I love my family and my little boy and want only happiness.

A. If you have thoughts of killing, I strongly advise you to get psychiatric treatment at once. Whatever causes it, stress or the devil or whatever, your need is to get healed.

Personally, I do not question your sanity, but your obsessive thinking and negative attitudes need straightening out.

Perhaps you will find help in our booklet Thought Conditions which is on its way to you. Anyone wishing a free copy may write to us at Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

Single and ashamed Q. I am 57 years old and have never been married. I did not choose a single life, but I would never marry a woman that I did not love nor would I marry a woman that did not love me.

I just never met the right person. But through the years my lust and weakness has driven me many times to break God's Commandment, "Thou shalt not commit adultery." I feel very guilty, and I fear I will do the same thing in the future. I still have the same weakness and physical needs.

What is the answer for people like me? I go to church but feel I am a terrible sinner and a hypocrite.

A. Your problem is a natural one, but I have to answer you as a pastor and urge you to seek God's help and forgiveness. Lust is a tough problem to overcome, but taking control of your thoughts and asking God for help can give you power over temptation.

The marrying kind? Q. I want to ask you about a man whom I got acquainted with a while back. He seems to be a good man only he has a drinking problem which he can't seem to control. And I wonder what could be done about this problem and if he is the marrying kind. I have prayed for him but it seems like nothing helps. So please give me some advice about this man.

A. If this man has a drinking problem and he seems unable to control it, it may mean that he is an alcoholic. In that case you are best advised not to consider marriage with him. In addition to prayer, the most effective course of treatment for an alcoholic is Alcoholics Anonymous.

Daughter a stranger Q. Our two sons respect us and cause us no problems, but our daughter turned into a complete stranger when she was 16. She was introduced to "pot" while attending a camp. She eventually graduated from high school and moved out, taking all her furniture without our permission.

After working as a waitress for several months she quit and hitchhiked with a friend to the West Coast. The last we heard from her she said she and her boyfriend were moving to Texas.

That was 4 months ago. Needless to say we are heartbroken. Do you think these children will eventually mature and tire of their way of life?

A. Let us hope so. And the record of many such unhappy cases is that they become fed up with such life and want out of it.

Follow your daughter with your love, prayers and faith. And that she will get with it and return to sane living, I have no doubt.

Biloxi trash recycling center to serve Coast

Beginning July 11 the entire Gulf Coast will be able to participate in a recycling program unique to the 50 states, says Tom Boone, director of the non-profit Gulf Coast Recycling Center which plans to locate in Biloxi.

Boone, who lives in Ocean Springs and teaches at the Gulf Coast Junior College Jackson County Campus in Gautier, says the three-county monthly pickups have no parallel in other states.

The community resource recovery program is a project of the Alternative Energy Alliance supported by churches, businesses and city governments. The idea was spurred by Gov. William Winter's establishment of recycling in state agencies and the efforts of the State Department of Energy and Transportation to help communities organize their own recycling programs," Boone explains.

Materials the center will collect include corrugated, computer, newsprint, and mixed papers; clear glass; aluminum; tin cans; and motor oil.

Boone reports, "Proclamations from all Coast city mayors declared June as Gulf Coast Recycling Center month. Initial contacts with area banks and utilities brought a promise to donate waste paper and at a recent United Methodist Seashore District pastor's meeting the project was endorsed with 22 clergymen agreeing to organize their congregations for the monthly collection."

"The response from leaders in Gulfport typifies the apparent readiness of Coast citizens to reduce their municipal waste which costs that city $775,000 a year as a part of our $6 billion national garbage removal bill," he says.

Endorsing the conservation project are Mayor Jack Barnett, Commissioner of Public Works R. C. Randall, Dr. Jim Keith of First Baptist, Rev. Glenn Martin of Trinity United Methodist, Dr. Richard Summers of First Presbyterian, all of Gulfport. Boone says Bishop Joseph L. Howze of the Biloxi Catholic Diocese is helping publicize the project at the parish level. Boone points out most people are unaware that two-thirds of the municipal waste can be reused.

"When garbage is treated as waste instead of valuable resources cities lose in four ways. Tax dollars to collect and dispose of the three to five pounds per person per day; we are burying billions of dollars in paper, aluminum, iron and glass, resources which are mostly limited on the earth; energy is wasted by failing to make new products from recycled materials; and landfills, which can damage the environment, are running out," he explains.

"Making a new drink can from a recycled one takes 95 percent less energy than making the can from bauxite ore. Making your daily paper out of recycled newsprint creates an energy savings of 64 percent. The recycling industry figures claim the energy saved during 1979 from national recycling was equivalent to 316,819,000 barrels of crude oil," Boone reports.

When asked what difference recycling can make, Boone answers, "By tripling our national paper recycling and increasing the steel recovered by 50 percent the energy saved would equal 500,000 barrels of oil per day — valued currently at $6 billion. This is more energy output than 14 nuclear power plants produce."

Recycling is relatively new in Mississippi and the potential is represented by the national figures. Our society is recovering 19 percent of the paper, 31 percent of the iron, 18 percent of the aluminum, and 4 percent of the glass.

The Gulf Coast Recycling Center organizers hope to reach a volume of 100 tons per month collected by the end of this year and Boone pointed out this could easily be accomplished if 25 businesses and 75 churches collected only one ton per month.

During June and early July committees will be set up from Waveland to Moss Point and a central drop-off site will be sought in each community. Local citizens will then be asked to accumulate the desired materials and bring them to the local drop-off site on appropriate days.

In time as the volume increases the center plans to hire handicapped persons to assist in the processing. For more information call Boone at 872-1510, during the day.

Center offers audiovisual catalogue

A new, updated Catalog of Audiovisual Materials Available on Loan is now available from the Mississippi Research and Development Center's Information Services Division.

This publication is considered a helpful reference tool for Mississippi businesses and industries that need supervisory training and management films.

Sixteen new titles have been added to the collection, making 154 audiovisual titles currently available from the Center's lending library.

Mary Julia Anderson, audiovisual coordinator of the R & D Center, says that "Emphasis has been placed on acquiring audiovisuals in the areas of community planning, management, merchandising, and supervisory training since these are the topics most frequently requested by Mississippi's businesses and industries. The demand for these audiovisuals grows each year as businesses become more aware of the need for staff training."

There is no charge for borrowing these materials. Also, at no charge to the borrower, the Center schedules out-of-town delivery and pickup for the audiovisuals with a private parcel service.

Copies of the catalog can be obtained from the Information Services Division, Mississippi Research and Development Center, P. O. Drawer 2470, Jackson, MS 39205, telephone 982-6372.

Socialworker offers tips on parenting adolescents

HELP! MY CHILD IS A TEENAGER

By MARJORIE MUSICK
Hancock Health Dept.

Congratulations. Your family is the proud owner of an adolescent. Or are you?

Many parents share mixed feelings toward their teenagers and some even wish their teenagers would go away.

That once-nice little girl or boy who thought mom and dad were the greatest now is perhaps sullen, surly, and rebellious.

And if the teen's attitude is not problematic, then parents worry about school, friends, drugs, alcohol, etc.

What's a body to do? And the experts — well, some say you should "talk" with your teen, while others recommend strict discipline, showing who is boss, etc.

So we end up with confused parents and adolescents who are hostile.

This author has no illusions about easy answers to problems that plague parents because the teen years sometimes just must be endured. However, perhaps this short article can lend some ideas that might be helpful.

Parents have a shot at reducing teenage rebellion if good, consistent discipline and acceptable values are demonstrated before the child reaches the rebellious teens.

Inconsistent discipline, double messages (do as I say, not as I do), and conflicts between parents over what is unacceptable and acceptable behavior are breeding grounds for severe problems when your child becomes a teen.

A certain amount of rebellious behavior is to be expected; it is the young adult's desire to achieve independence. Adolescents are after autonomy and it is necessary for them to have practice in decision-making before they have to cope with real-life situations.

One of the major conflicts between parents and adolescents is that the two generations grew up with different kinds of social demands.

Those of us who were teens in the fifties had an entirely different world to move about in. And sometimes we were miserable!

Earlier physical growth and more social contact with friends caused adolescents to want fewer controls from parents. Teens are also bombarded with media influences which encourage all kinds of behaviors found scary by parents.

Adolescents also tend to take out their hostilities on their parents because they know they are the safest people; it is a rare parent who will totally withdraw love and reject the child. It is also useful to remember that teens have limited abilities when it comes to communications skills. Some of us adults lack in this area, also.

According to Dr. Hershel D. Thornberg, professor of educational psychology at the University of Arizona,

Broilers

WEEK ENDING JUNE 13

BROILER-TYPE
Hatcheries in the State set 7,212,000 eggs for broiler chicks during the week ending June 13, 1981, slightly under the previous week but 10 percent above the corresponding week a year ago.

There were 6,448,000 broiler chicks placed on Mississippi farms during the week ending June 13, 1981, slightly below the previous week but 6 percent over the corresponding week a year ago. Cumulative placements for 1981 are 146,448,000 broiler chicks — 2 percent over last year's figure at this time.

EGG-TYPE

In the four states that accounted for about 23 percent of the hatch of all egg-type chicks in the U.S. in 1980, settings during the week ending June 13, 1981, were down 19 percent and hatchings were down 35 percent from one year ago.

WEEK ENDING MAY 30

BROILER-TYPE
Hatcheries in the State set 7,249,000 eggs for broiler chicks during the week ending May 30, 1981, 4 percent under the previous week but 10 percent above the corresponding week a year ago.

There were 6,536,000 broiler chicks placed on Mississippi farms during the week ending May 30, 1981, 1 percent over the previous week and 4 percent over the corresponding week a year ago.

Cumulative placements for 1981 are 133,547,000 broiler chicks — 2 percent over last year's figure at this time.

Likewise, Gennin said, farmers who want to establish proven yields for 1981 wheat production should assemble proof of production for this year's crop.

Producers who wish to prove production must furnish production evidence satisfactory to the county committee.

In particular, the county committee must be satisfied that the evidence is for the year of production and producing farm as represented. If additional information is needed, please contact the county ASCS office.

Pearl River and Hancock County producers are urged not to delay reporting any changes in farm operations for the 1981 program year to the ASCS office, Franklin A. Gennin, county executive director of the Pearl River-Hancock County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service Office, said.

For ASCS to help producers get program benefits, farm records must be up to date. Therefore, the producer should contact the county ASCS office if there has been a change in the land a farmer owns or operates.

adolescents learn consideration and respect for others by being cared for, loved, and trusted by their parents.

Parents should exhibit the behaviors they want their teens to have. Setting an example is the best way of teaching values to an adolescent.

The preceding ideas are but general thoughts about problems parents encounter when living with adolescent children. I have hopes of dealing with more specific problems in future articles. Meanwhile, hang in there, parents! Remember, you can only do your best and the rest is up to your teenager.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF

LUCIEN C. PERNICIAIRO.

DIED JUNE 23, 1968.

One year has passed since you were so suddenly taken from us.
God saw you getting weary,
He did what He thought best
He came and stood beside you and whispered come and rest.
You bid no one farewell,
Not even goodbye.
You were gone before we knew it and only God knows why.
It broke our hearts to lose
you.
But you did not go alone.
For part of us went with you.
The day God called you home.
God gave us strength to bear
it.
Courage to take the blow
But what it meant to lose
you,
Daddy, God will only know.
Sadly missed by Wife, children and grandchildren

Power will ex refund

Mississippi Power Comp begin an extensive information program in July to explain a refund plan approved by the Service Commission.

The refund to retail customers from Mississippi Power Company from settlement of a breach of suit filed in mid-1975 by the state against Peabody Coal Company failure to deliver coal for the firm's Watson Electric Generating Plant in Harrison County.

"We believe the plan comprehensive and equitable because based on the total kilowatt-hour by each customer during the from June 1975 through December 1980," Alan Barton, president of operating officer, said.

"The refund plan provides checks be mailed in December customers who received electricity from Mississippi Power Company time during the 5.5 year period," Barton explained that it was

IRS charges false return

A federal grand jury in Jackson indicted Bay St. Louis seafood John E. Ladner for filing false tax information in 1976 and 1977.

Ladner has been requested to to the indictment in United District Court in Biloxi. His wife The two count indictment Ladner, of Rt. 2, Box 745, substantially reduced his income in a return jointly with his wife Charlotte Count One of the indictment Ladner with reporting $294,730 receipts in 1976 while he reported substantial gross receipts of amount.

Count Two alleges the seafood reported gross receipts of $21,107 when he again received substantial gross receipts above
